

ROBERT KURTZ BIO

I enjoy the creative process whether it be woodworking, construction, artwork, or writing. I started drawing at an early age and was chosen to participate in a program for grade school artists at the renowned Toledo Art Museum where I lived in Ohio. One of my early paintings was chosen to go to Japan as part of a cultural exchange program with a sister city there.

I was able to give more time to art in my adult years where I have enjoyed working with oil, watercolor, and acrylic, with a wide range of subject matter and style, including plein-air. I have benefitted from lessons taken from Stefan Baumann, Kirk Miller, and also through several workshops I have attended.

My work has been purchased by individuals across the U.S. as well as locally. I regularly donate artwork to various fund raising events for non-profit humanitarian causes such as bridge building in Africa, school funding in Honduras, providing medical equipment in third world countries, and helping post foster care young adults here in our area. Besides doing art pieces for those organizations, I like doing custom commission pieces based on a person's chosen subject matter, medium, style, color and size.
