

Randy Honerlah - Biography

California artist, Randy Honerlah grew up in the San Francisco bay area and currently resides in the Sierra foothills with his wife, Sharon.

Randy has been painting since he was a boy. During a 35 year career in the semiconductor industry, he continued cultivating his artistic skills on his own, earned an art degree in college and also studied with various artists.

Randy's abstracted landscapes, animals and flowers rely on vivid colors, strength of composition and texture. His love of these subjects clearly shows in his treatment of light, trees and water that stir the human emotion and place the viewer in an unfamiliar perspective.

Randy's work has been published in books, magazines and newspapers. His abstracts, landscapes and animal paintings have won awards in many local, national and international exhibitions. His work is collected by individuals and corporations. Viewers have stated that Randy's work is a blend of modern abstraction, classic impressionism and contemporary illustration. He has achieved Signature Artist standing in the International Society of Acrylic Painters.
