

ROY MOFFATT      Biography as a Artist

I am a self taught watercolor artist and I credit my art for teaching me to see the world.

“Beauty and interesting compositions are everywhere, once you learn how to see them.”

I grew up in Texas. In 1980 I moved to southern California to practice medicine, retiring in 2010 to northern California. There is so much beauty in Folsom where I live and in the surrounding areas, with so much to explore and enjoy!

Plein aire painting has given me a sense for light and shadow, which are essential to making a painting interesting. Also I have personally studied the works and texts of Rex Brandt and Milford Zornes as well attending a variety of workshops.

I am a member of the Folsom Arts Association, Eldorado Hills Arts Association, Watercolor Association of Sacramento Horizons, Watercolor West, and American Watercolor Society. My paintings have been accepted into shows at Sacramento Fine Arts Center, Southern California Plein Air Painters Association and at VIVA Gallery in Encino, Ca. My paintings have hung at the restaurant “Off Vine” in Hollywood, California, and they are in many homes and offices in California, Texas, and other states.

“What better way to see the world than to paint it!”
